

Billy the Dragon

- Amazing short stories
- Clear and bright illustrations
- Stories carrying strong values (tolerance, family, friendship...)

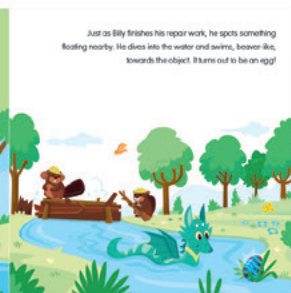

Each night, before Billy goes to sleep, he closes his book and blows out his candle. This is a bit strange, really, as most dragons light candles by blowing on them...
Not Billy, though. This funny little dragon doesn't breathe fire. He breathes water!

Tonight, Billy is in the middle of reading a cool superhero comic. And so, no sooner does he close his eyes than he starts dreaming about being a superhero himself. In the morning, his mind is made up: he is GONING to be a superhero!

It has to be said that having a dragon around the house comes in very handy in a forest family. Billy is already big and strong and, even better, he is a water-breathing dragon! He uses his powerful jet to roll large logs into the river.

Just as Billy finishes his repair work, he spots something floating nearby. He dives into the water and swims, boomer-like, towards the object. It turns out to be an egg!
